Enano CMS

Enano is a new wiki-like CMS written in PHP. It aims to be a lightweight, yet flexible, website solution that functions as a companion to a forum or support center. In addition, Enano provides your site with support for the all latest Web 2.0 toys and gadgets, turning your website into a powerful, dynamic web portal.

Enano comes with all you need to start building your website, including a fast, easy-to-use installer, a feature-packed administration panel, and lots of administration controls on each page, while striving to have less bloat and more float in the sea of content management systems out there.
